This is my opinion, but I think that on balance - and this does not mean that these are the opinions of one-man band Nik Nik, but rather that I am expressing my own opinion - the upcoming version 6 would have helped out a lot if it was released a year ago. Consumers and enthusiasts are now much better trained and familiar with Lightroom, the stock library, and even Raw conversion and it is now time for Adobe to integrate this knowledge to the digital photography workflow. I know that I will not be having any kind of "debate" on the subject, because the purpose of this review will only be to be entertaining. And I think that I have reached that purpose. So now, let us move on to the details.
